Overview

Let your creative side explode into reality and work with some of poorest children from the favelas keeping them off the streets. Why not include 10 hours of Portuguese language lessons during your first week of volunteering? Call us for more details!

On this project in the slums of Rio you will get the chance to work with underprivileged children aged between 6 and 15 years and really get involved in all art forms, not only art but dance, music, and theatre. This is the place if you really want your creative side to explode in an array of colours!

You will be working with some of the poorest children from the favelas of Rio and getting creative as you work with art, music and dance in one of the most amazing cities in the world. The aim of the project is to reach out to some of the poorest street children of the favela, giving them new interests in life and keeping them off the streets.

Destination Info

Brazil is the 5th largest country in the world stretching across over 8.5 million sq km (3.2 million sq mi). It shares its borders with Uruguay, Argentina, Paraguay, Bolivia, Peru, Colombia, Venezuela, Guyana, Suriname and French Guiana.

Brazil Creative Education in Rio

From the tropical forests of the Amazon basin to the plateaus in the Central Highlands, Brazil's topography is quite diverse. The coast is made up of tropical beaches, lagoons, mangroves, dunes and coral reefs. At 6 million sq km (2.3 million sq mi), the Amazon is the largest rainforest in the world and covers over half of Brazil's landmass. Originating in the Andes, the main channel of the Amazon River runs from west to east in the northern part of the country. There is little seismic or volcanic activity due to Brazil's position near the centre of the South American Plate.

Itinerary

This project is located inside one of the most scenic favelas in Rio and is situated on top of a mountain in Zona Sul. Today most of the houses in the Rocinha are made from concrete or brick and some of the houses are three and four stories tall and have basic sanitation, plumbing and electricity. It is still however one of the poorest area's of Rio and its occupants live in poverty. This project was founded by 3 women with backgrounds in design and art who started the project as an outreach project for some of the poorest street children of the favela. Their aim was to give the children an interest in art and to get them off the streets and show them that they can make a difference in their lives. Some of the art that is produced at the project is also sold on an occasional basis, providing income to the project.

The project is a fun and lively place to be with approximately 20 to 40 children who attend the project who are all enthusiastic to learn and get involved. The children are aged between 6 to 15 years and come from the poorest areas of the favela but you will find that the project is a great place to be with lots of energy!

Brazil Creative Education in Rio

The three women that founded the project are the only members of staff so you can imagine that they really rely on the help of the volunteers to ensure that the kids have a great time. This is a great way for you to be part of something special and work with some amazing children and people along the way.

You will be working at the project from 1pm until 9pm Monday to Friday with occasional Saturdays for special events. You can expect to assist with all art related projects from basic art projects to advanced art projects usually depending on the age group you are working with at the time. The project also likes to work with as many mediums as possible including rubbish items as an example so if you have a great imagination then it will definitely come in useful. You will also have an opportunity to create and develop your own art activities with the children making it as fun as possible.

As well as the art project there are also weekly groups that you can help to organise, set up and attend such as guest DJs who come in to teach the kids how to DJ, along with additional programmes that you can either assist with or take responsibility for in the areas of dance, music, film as well as English classes and computer classes. Any skills that you have will definitely be utilised on this project as this is a project where you can develop your own programme within the project.

Day 1: Arrive into Rio de Janeiro airport (airport code GIG)

Welcome to Rio! Today you will be met at the airport and taken directly to the accommodation which will be your home for the duration of your stay. You will have the rest of the day to rest and recover from your journey but if you are feeling adventurous then you can always head out and start exploring your surroundings!

Brazil Creative Education in Rio

You should arrange a flight to get you into Rio on your specified arrival date between the hours of 5am and 11pm.

Day 2: Free day

Today is a free day for you to recover from your long flight and is free for you to do as you wish. You can always stroll down to the Copacabana Beach and watch the world go by or get to know your surroundings, whatever you choose it is up to you.

Day 3: Orientation and introductions to your project

This morning is your orientation meeting where you will all get together where the team will cover important information such as what it's going to be like at your project, dos and don'ts, fun things to do in Rio and how to stay safe on your trip. This is your prime opportunity to ask any burning questions that you haven't yet had answered and to meet your fellow volunteers!

After your meeting you will be shown the way to your project and introduced to the staff at the project who will be your day-to-day contacts, there will also be a member of the team with you who lives in the favela who will also help to show you around. You will spend the rest of your day learning the ropes and starting to get stuck into some volunteering.

Day 4 to Day 7: Time to get stuck in!

Now you know your way around you can really get to work! You can let your creative side loose on this project as you work with all aspects of art forms and from the drawing side to performing arts. The project also works with theatre, music and dance as well as cinematography and love volunteers who are enthusiastic and eager to get involved and are willing to give them the freedom to input their own ideas. The sky is the limit for the creative volunteer.

Day 8 and Day 9: The weekend is here!

You will be working occasional Saturdays but mostly the weekends are free to spend as you choose, so this is your chance to get out and explore all the sights, sounds, smells and tastes that Rio has to offer! Marvel at the famous statue of Christ the Redeemer, top up your tan and watch the beautiful people go by on Copacabana beach, wander through the stalls of a hippy market or enjoy a caipirinha - Brazil's national cocktail!

Following weeks

The following weeks will follow a similar pattern of working at the project and enjoying your free time. Time will fly by so make the most of every minute in this vibrant city!

Your last day

Having said your fond farewells to the children and staff at the project, taken your final photos and packed your bag full of souvenirs, you will make your own way back to the airport.

Accommodation

During your stay in Rio you will be accommodated in a hostel in the heart of the favelas and only 3km away from Ipanema Beach. You will be in a dorm room and will be sharing with up to 9 other people. The rooms are clean and comfortable and sheets and pillows are provided. Rooms also have air-conditioning. The hostel has a communal kitchen, recreation area, pool table, outside terrace library, free Wi-Fi, TV lounge, a bar and free breakfast. Money Matters

Brazil's currency is the 'real' (R$). One real is made up of 100 centavos.

ATMs are the easiest way of getting cash in big cities and are common. In many smaller towns, ATMs exist but rarely work for non-Brazilian cards. So make sure you bring some cash or traveller's cheques. Both cash and traveller's checks should be either in US dollars or Euros, with Amex being the most recognized traveller's check. Thomas Cook and Barclays traveller's checks are less widely accepted, but you should be able to cash them in large cities.

Brazil is one of the most expensive countries in South America – especially in the cities – so come prepared!

Meal, Inexpensive Restaurant $6.53
Domestic Beer (0.5 litre draught) $1.79
Coke/Pepsi (0.33 litre bottle) $1.22
Water (0.33 litre bottle) $0.84

(Prices quoted in US Dollars)

Passports and Visas

All nationalities require a full passport that must be valid for 6 months beyond the intended length of stay. It is your responsibility to have the correct personal documents and to obtain your own visa, if one is necessary, in accordance with the regulations of the country you are to visit. The information offered below is to help you with that process. We are not responsible for the actions of local immigration and customs officials, whether at points of entry or otherwise, and any subsequent effects.

British nationals and nationals of most European countries, and New Zealand do not require visas for visits of up to 90 days. Americans, Canadians and Australians do require a visa. All other nationalities should consult their nearest Brazil Embassy or High Commission.

Visa courier service

If you prefer to use a specialist visa courier service to apply for your visa on your behalf, we recommend Visa Central who can offer you assistance and advice, making your visa application straight forward.

To investigate costs for this service click here to select the country or countries that you wish to travel to.

Cultural Considerations

Etiquette

In Brazil, personal space is not such an issue and therefore people may stand a bit closer when speaking to you than they would at home, please do not be put off by this as it is just a different cultural practice.

Greeting and parting is usually marked with handshakes

If entertained in a Brazilian home, it is appropriate to send a thank you note and maybe some flowers the next day. Do not send purple flowers, as this signifies mourning.

Religion

Brazil is around 74% Roman Catholic, though there is no official state religion. Religion is an important part of life in Brazil, and we would urge that you be respectful at all times in and around places of worship. Do not be surprised to see individuals crossing themselves when passing any object of religious significance or reciting religious adages at appropriate times.

Clothing

There is no specific code of dress in Brazil, but remember the seasons are opposite to ours and dress for the climate. Casual dress is appropriate, though conservatism is advised away from the beach. It may be necessary for men to wear a tie and jacket for more exclusive restaurants.

Smoking, Alcohol and Drugs

Smoking and drinking is acceptable in Brazil and readily available. However, please respect other people. Smoking is not permissible in apartments or the host families' homes. Many regions in Brazil have banned or limited smoking in public places and many restaurants will have a separate seating area for those wishing to smoke.

You should drink in moderation and it should not impact on programme. While we want you to have fun in your free time, anti-social behaviour will not be tolerated.

It is absolutely forbidden to bring drugs into Brazil. Always keep an eye on your luggage while travelling. Never bring anyone else's luggage through customs. If you get caught there is little chance that you will walk away without punishment. As in most countries Brazil has very strict rules when it comes to the possession of drugs. All drugs, including "soft" drugs like marijuana, are ILLEGAL. Please do NOT use any illegal substances whilst travelling – it is not worth the risk and is not acceptable at the project.

Tipping

Most bars or restaurants will generally add a 10% service charge at the end of your bill.

In bars, it is usual practise to build up a tab rather than pay cash for each individual drink. Typically you should ask the bartender for your bill and he will bring the total to you. Sometimes in crowded bars and nightclubs you have your individual control number and go to the register to pay at the end.

With taxis, you should round the taxi fare to the nearest whole number. Tips are not generally given beyond this. For most hotels, a small tip is usually given if a porter transfers all luggage to or from the room.

If on an organised tour, a hat is usually passed around for a tip to be given. It is entirely up to you how much you wish to give them.

Vaccinations & Health

Travel health can often be something people forget about before going away, but a little preparation and knowledge can go a long way to help you stay fit and healthy while abroad. The risks to your health whilst travelling will vary depending on your general health and the type of activities you are going to be partaking in and the length of your stay.

Since we are not medically qualified, it is recommended that you consult with your Doctor or a recognised Travel Medical Advisory Service who will assess your particular health risks before recommending vaccines and/or anti-malarial tablets and advising you on what precautions you should take.

Safety

Unfortunately, tourists are often targets for pickpockets and thieves. Please educate yourself about South America and Brazil in particular, before you leave, so that you can be alert to all types of situations. Safety guidelines will be covered in detail at your orientation session upon arrival but please familiarise yourself with the following general travel safety rules.

- Avoid travelling alone, especially at night
- Find out where the unsafe areas are and avoid them
- When travelling keep all-important documents and valuables in a safe place, like an inner hidden pocket or money belt
- Carry only as much cash as you think you will need for the day
- Don't wear expensive jewellery or watches
- Be wary of people who seem too friendly too fast
- Keep cameras out of sight. Always keep bags and purses in your sight, especially on public transport.
- Before swimming, ask how safe the area is
- Levels of violence and street crime are relatively high in Brazil, particularly in major cities, so please be vigilant after dark.
- Please make sure that you always use a legitimate taxi, especially in Rio de Janeiro and São Paulo, because some thieves have been known to disguise themselves as taxi drivers and prey upon tourists. Only use taxis that are lined up at a taxi stand or call a radio taxi service. Legitimate taxis also have red or maroon license plates, while those on private cars are grey. The red or maroon coloured commercial license plate should include the name of the city you are in.
- Please take into account that it is a legal requirement in Brazil to carry proof of identity at all times.

ATM Theft

It is very likely that you will need to withdraw cash at some point during your travels. Please be cautious when withdrawing money from an ATM and ensure that you are vigilant of other people near the ATM, especially those that offer unsolicited assistance if your card is detained. It has been recognised that individuals are operating unlawful withdrawals by placing 'traps' in ATMs whereby personal bank cards are being detained, causing the victim to believe their card transaction has not been completed, and leaving their bank card in the ATM which is then later retrieved by the thief.

Language Guide

The official language is Portuguese. Here are some useful phrases that should help you get by in Brazil. We also suggest you obtain a Lonely Planet or language guide for the destination(s) you are travelling to.

Hello - Ola

Goodbye - Adeus

Yes - Sim

No - Não

Thank you - Obrigado

I do not understand - Eu não entendo

Where is...? - Onde e...?

The Police station - Delegacia de polícia

The Train station - Estação Ferroviária

The hospital - Hospital

Food & Drink

Brazilian food tends to revolve around three key things:

- Arroz (white rice)
- Feijao (black beans)
- Farinha (flour)
- These are usually eaten with red meat, chicken or fish.
- The food tends to vary from region to region, depending on the influences present in a region, so for example in the North there is an Indian influence. Within the Amazon, the staple tends to be fish, whereas in the South it is meat.
- Below are some of Brazil's traditional dishes to keep your eyes and stomachs peeled for whilst you're out there:
 - Barreado - meats and spices cooked in a clay pot for 24 hours and served with banana and farofa
 - Carangueijada - cooked crab, whole
 - Caruru - food brought from Africa to Brazil, made with ladies fingers (okra), onions, shrimp, peppers and oil
 - Cozido - stew with potatoes, carrots and vegetables
 - Doorado - freshwater fish
 - Feijoada - national dish of meat stew with rice and a bowl of beans
 - Xinxim de Galinha - chicken flavoured with garlic, salt and lemon

Breakfast tends to be light and usually consists of breads and jam with coffee. Lunch is usually the main meal of the day, with most shops and offices closing for a couple of hours whilst everyone sits down to a large meal. Dinner is late as a consequence and it is common to see people eating in restaurants until midnight.

Drinks

Brazil is renowned for its strong coffee such as cafezinho, which is a small cup of sweetened coffee, often complimentary after meals in restaurants.

The most popular alcoholic beverage is cachaca, which is an extremely potent sugar-cane liquor. In Leblon you can find the Academia de Cachaca, there are tours of distillers in Minas Gerais and a Cachaca Museum.

Capeta is another common alcoholic beverage consisting of Cachaca, condensed milk, cinnamon and guarana powder.

Public Holidays

To view a list of the public holidays for Vietnam, please see the link below:

www.timeanddate.com/holidays/brazil/

When planning your trip, you should be aware of the major national holidays celebrated throughout the country. Many schools, government offices, stores and banks are closed on National Holidays.

Weather

Brazil's weather is pretty temperate all year round so deciding on what time you want to go will really depend on what sort of activities you want to do.

The summer runs from December to February and it's also the time that Brazilians are on holiday so everywhere tends to be a little crowded – but if you want to coincide with Carnival you'll be expecting crowds! If you're likely to spend time in the Amazon and the Pantanal you'll find June to August are normally the driest months.

Time

Brazil has four time zones. Standard time is three hours behind GMT; Amazon time is four hours behind GMT; Acre, a state in Brazil, is five hours behind GMT; and finally the Fernando de Noronha archipelago is two hours behind GMT. With the exception of Acre, the country observes Daylight Saving Time between October and February-March, and clocks move forward one hour.

Electricity

There is no standard voltage in Brazil. Most states use 110V, but some states in the north and some hotels use 220-240V.

Plugs are two pin – either flat blade or round pins
